FIFTY MINERS ARE PROBABLY DEAD IN PENNSYLVANIA PIT

Explosion Wrecked Airshaft and Caused Fall of Slate Which Shut off Escape

MANY INJURED HAVE BEEN BROUGHT TO TOP

Hope That Some of the Men Are Still Alive Causes Rescuers to Work Hard

(Associated Press) SPANGLER, Pa., Nov. 6.—More than fifty miners are believed to have lost their lives in an explosion in the Reilly mine of Reilly Coal company near here this morning. Exploration of the workings by trained rescuers was being continued tonight. None of the dead had been brought to the surface at 10:30 o'clock.

"There are dead miners strewn all along the entries down there," said J. J. Bourquin, leader of the United States bureau of mines rescue crew, as he came from the shaft of the Reilly mine near here tonight.

"We are doing nothing to bring out the dead," he continued. "We only stopped with them long enough to see that the spark of life had fled and then moved on in search of the living. Quite a bit of mine remains to be explored, but I can say if there are any more live men in there it won't take us long to get them."

Engineer Bourquin and his men spent the greater part of the afternoon in the workings. They were equipped with oxygen helmets and so eager were they to force their way through the gas that they made seven trips without pausing to have the gas tanks recharged. Behind a brattice hastily constructed by the entombed miners to shut out the deadly damp from the heading where they had taken refuge the rescuers found four men alive and one dead.

A little later they came across another brattice, made of mine cars and bearing the legend burned on with a miner's lamp: "There are 29 men behind this."

The air was so bad here that "Sally," the bureau's pet canary bird used in testing the air, died.

Hope that some of the missing men were still alive was reflected in reports which came to the surface that a brattice built of old timbers by the miners after the explosion cut off a part of No. 8 heading to the left of the main entry.

"Look behind this wall," had been burned in a smooty place on a timber by an acetylene lamp. Knowing that the miners would take every means to help their rescuers this startling sentence was taken to mean that the men were still alive.

But no attempt was made to tear down the brattice for the main entries were filled with gas and when they said the brattice would be demolished. They determined upon this course after one of their canary birds taken with them from Pittsburgh had died in the foul air.

At another point in the mine a heavy fall of slate from the roof had completely clogged the entry. Back of it, rescuers declared they could hear voices and they attacked it vigorously in the hope of finding some of the entombed men alive, although they received no answer to repeated calls.

Rescue forces were made up of skilled miners from Spangler and vicinity in charge of engineers from the United States bureau of mines and the mine rescue crew of the Cambria Steel company, which arrived here early this afternoon. They worked unceasingly in the shaft, bratticing the workings so as to control the gas and admit the pure air from above.

Other volunteers gathered the dead and injured which were scattered in the workings not far from the foot of the shaft. The dead were placed in a subterranean room and the injured, swathed in blankets, were taken to the surface. There a first aid station had been established by Spangler physicians and the Spangler chapter of the American Red Cross. They were reinforced later in the day by ten Red Cross nurses from Johnson.

The crowd which assembled almost immediately after the explosion continued to grow until at nightfall it seemed that almost the entire population of Spangler and the surrounding mining villages had assembled there. During the day they had been kept in check by a strong force of coal and iron police, but at nightfall six troops of

SUPREME COURT CLEANED UP ALL OF THE MOTIONS

Denied Mandamus Asked by Nickels and Disposed of the Mayfield Injunctions

PEDDY ATTORNEYS STILL CONTENTIOUS

Nickels Announced That Fight Is to Be Continued If Peddy Is Not Elected

(Associated Press) AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 6.—The supreme court late this afternoon in special sitting disposed of the last of the Mayfield injunction matters by denying all motions and applications made by Luther Nickels as representing those in opposition to Mayfield.

The application for mandamus overruled was filed by Luther Nickels, of Dallas, chief attorney for the Peddy forces. It claimed that the order of the Dallas court yesterday was void because it was entered on Sunday; that the Dallas court did not have jurisdiction in the case and that the order was void because it was entered before the five day service period of was up.

The application was submitted in the names of L. T. Eubank, William Kennedy and Robert Hanna, plaintiffs in the Groesbeck suit. Attorneys who filed the mandamus motion in the supreme court, tonight issued a statement contending that the Groesbeck and Corsicana injunction suits against the placing of Mayfield's name on the election ballots are still in effect. The attorneys indicated that the fight against Mayfield will be carried on after the election tomorrow if George E. Peddy is not elected.

The Groesbeck injunction is still in force, Mr. Nickels said tonight, by reason of the application of a writ of error which is still pending. The writ of error application, Mr. Nickels said, will probably reach the State supreme court tomorrow morning. The Corsicana injunction is still in force, he declared, because of the motion for rehearing filed in the Dallas court of civil appeals this afternoon.

First Assistant Attorney General John C. Wall tonight discredited the contention of the anti-Mayfield attorneys stating that there are no injunctions now in force and no proceedings pending in the Mayfield litigation.

In answer to numerous inquiries to the attorney general, Wall dispatched telegrams similar to those sent out by acting Secretary of State Payne, stating that it is now the duty of county election boards to put Mr. Mayfield's name on the ballots.

Mayfield is in Houston tonight and could not be reached for a statement on the outcome of the litigation.

NEW WITNESSES HAVE BEEN FOUND

Warrants for a Woman and Two Men to Be Asked in New Jersey Murder Case

(Associated Press) NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Nov. 6.—The story told by Mrs. Jane Gibson, woman of considerable mystery, the self-styled "eye witness" of the double murder of the Rev. Howard Wheeler Hall and Mrs. Eleanor R. Mills on September 14, last, has been definitely corroborated, authorities said tonight.

It has also been unofficially reported that the grand jury would be asked to return indictments against a woman and two men. An attorney who has figured prominently in the investigation said that legal preparations already were being made to combat the indictment.

The corroborating witness of Mrs. Gibson's story, who swears that she saw the rector and the choir singer plainly while she was searching for farm laborers on the Phillips homestead, Special Detective James Mason announced, Mrs. A. C. Croley, who lives near the scene where the two bodies were found.

Signor Smith, grave digger, who boards at the Froley house, has been questioned by State troopers and the substance of his testimony is being closely guarded. When approached by newspaper writers Smith has declined to talk and has repeatedly declared that the detectives have warned him not to discuss the double murder. In preparation for presenting the entire case to the grand jury the authorities today began a general requisitioning of all persons who have previously been mentioned in connection with the case.

CLOSE CONTESTS IN SOME OF THE EASTERN RACES

Senatorial Fights in New Jersey, New York, Rhode Island Connecticut, Maryland

GUBERNATORIAL SCRAP INTERESTS NEW YORK

Both Parties Have Put Up Their Strongest in Effort to Gain Control of Government

(Associated Press) NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Close contests were indicated tonight in several of the senatorial, congressional and state elections in Eastern States tomorrow notwithstanding confident claims of victory in both the republican and democratic camps.

In the senatorial fights, interest centers on the lively campaigns in Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York, Connecticut, Rhode Island, and Maryland. New Hampshire does not hold a senatorial election this year and Maine had its election last September.

The fight in the Bay State has attracted widespread interest because the veteran senator Cabot Lodge, republican leader in the senate, is a candidate for re-election. His democratic opponent is William A. Gaston, a Boston banker.

The contest in New Jersey, where Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen is a candidate for re-election against Governor Edward I. Edwards, has been enlivened because of the wet and dry issue, the governor favoring the wets.

Senator William A. Calder of New York, has been through a spirited campaign with Royal S. Copeland, health commissioner of New York, with the tariff as the leading issue.

In Connecticut, George P. McLean, republican, has engaged in a strenuous tilt for re-election with Thomas J. Spelacy and in Rhode Island, Senator P. G. Gerry, democrat, contested with former Governor Livingston E. Beekman.

The seat of Senator Joseph I. France, republican of Maryland, has been sought by William C. Bruce in a vigorous campaign.

Pennsylvania will elect two senators, the republican incumbents, George Wharton Pepper and David A. Reed, being candidates for re-election.

Mr. Pepper is filling the unexpired term of the late Boies Penrose and Mr. Reed is filling the unexpired term of the late Senator Crow.

Two gubernatorial campaigns—in New York and Pennsylvania, have attracted national interest. In the Empire State Governor Nathan Miller, republican, is a candidate for re-election, his opponent being ex-Governor Alfred E. Smith, democrat. This campaign has almost eclipsed all other contests in the point of popular interest in the state.

In Pennsylvania, Gifford Pinchot who focussed attention by wrestling the republican nomination from the regular organization, is opposed by John A. McSparran, active in the Keystone State Grange.

Close contests were indicated in many of the congressional elections, the republicans and the democrats alike claiming gains.

RANCHMAN SLAIN BODY IN RIVER

Bill Harris' Head Had Been Crushed Before He Was Cast into Rio Grande

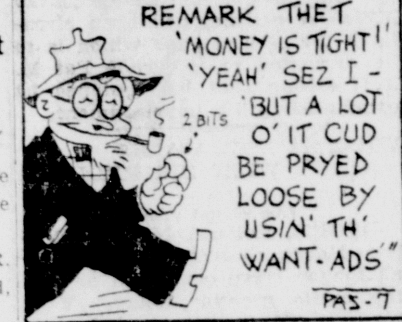

(Associated Press) MARFA, Texas, Nov. 6.—W. T. (Bill) Harris, rancher of Marfa, was murdered and his body thrown into the Rio Grande, according to E. N. Caulder, business partner of the slain man, who reached Marfa today from Glenn Springs, in the lower Big Bend district.

Mr. Harris disappeared from his ranch near here on October 16. His body was recovered from the Rio Grande near Glenn Springs by Mr. Caulder and will be buried in Marfa.

Mr. Caulder said that the body bore marks of violence and that the skull had been crushed by the murderers, apparently with a heavy rock.

NERVOUSNESS IN COTTON MARKET

Was Overcome by the Continued Bullish Reports from the South

(Associated Press) NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Early declines in the cotton market appeared to be promoted by renewed nervousness over political conditions in the Near East, but were followed by rallies on continued bullish reports from Southern spot markets. December sold up from 25.10 to 25.45 or within 3 points of Saturday's closing figures and closed at 25.37 with the general market closing firm at a decline of 11 points to an advance of 2 points.

The market opened easy at a decline of 20 to 22 points. Prices declined under heavy general realizing or liquidation. The market steadied around 24.82 for January and 24.60 for March or about 30 to 38 points net lower on the general list and the market was firmer during the afternoon.

Covering by early sellers helped an advance which carried January up to 25.18 and March to 24.95 or quotations of last week.

Port receipts 46,040. United States port stocks 1,125,995. Exports 18,587, making 1,546,883 so far this season.

TILDEN WILL LOSE END OF A FINGER

(Associated Press) PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 6.—William Tilden II, National tennis champion, will lose the end of the middle finger of his right hand as the result of blood poison which followed a slight cut from a wire backstop received while he was playing at Bridgeton, N. J. on October 14. The loss is unlikely to handicap his playing.

OHIO HAS A VOTE BUYING SCANDAL

Pike County Men Are Being Searched for on Warrants Making Charge

(Associated Press) CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—Weather conditions throughout the Middle West and Mississippi Valley—with the exception of the two Dakotas—are reported tonight as favorable for tomorrow's election.

Rain on the plains of the Dakotas and snow in the Black Hills have rendered roads in many sections impassable and tend to cut down the country vote. Republicans and democrats in South Dakota both claim as a result they will have an advantage over the former members of the non-partisan. The league candidate for governor is a woman, Miss Alice Lorraine Daly.

In Texas the supreme court by an eleventh hour decision today ordered the name of Earle B. Mayfield, the democratic candidate for United States senator, printed on all ballots. The word was sent to all county clerks but some doubt exists whether all can comply in time.

Injunctions by his political opponents had prevented the printing heretofore. The name of his republican opponent, George E. B. Peddy, has been barred from the ballot because he was not nominated by a regular party primary.

In Ohio a vote buying scandal has broken with the arrest of one man and the issuance of warrants for four others, charged with attempting to buy the votes of absentee voters of Pike county.

Last minute meetings, speeches and the usual final hour claims of victory featured the closing campaigns throughout the middlewestern States.

Following the old plan that it costs nothing to claim everything, most of the campaign managers made their final communiques so all-embracing as to be worthless in determining what they actually believe.

MAYFIELD NOT ON THE BALLOT IN DALLAS CO.

(Associated Press) DALLAS, Nov. 6.—Dallas county voters will vote with ballots which do not have the name of Earle B. Mayfield, candidate for United States senator, printed upon them, according to a decision reached tonight by the Dallas county election board, composed of Arch C. Allen, county judge; W. S. Skiles, county clerk, and Dan Harston, sheriff.

All Injunctions Were Disposed of

Court of Civil Appeals Sat on Sunday to Get Through the Motions and Supreme Court Held a Special Sitting Monday

For the first time in the history of Texas an appellate court sat on Sunday to determine matters pertaining to an election. The Fifth court of civil appeals, sitting in Dallas, deemed the emergency sufficient to hear certain phases of the election tangle and entered orders on these points:

Motion to advance the appeal from the Groesbeck court, granted. Motion to supplement the record of the case on appeal, granted. Motion of Peddy forces to dismiss the appeal, refused. Motion of Peddy faction to nullify mandamus of Tarrant County district judge, compelling election board to print Mayfield's name on the ballot, refused. Motion to dissolve the Groesbeck injunction, granted. Motion for writ of prohibition, refused.

Immediately on announcement of the court's action in overruling the two motions, Mr. Nickels filed an application for writ of error with the clerk of the appellate court to carry the issue before the Supreme Court of Texas. This would argue for jurisdiction by the Supreme Court, the appellate court having disposed of all matters in the ballot litigation before it.

Secretary of State Staples Sunday morning sent telegrams to County Judges all over Texas that they could print Mr. Mayfield's name on the ballots for Tuesday as a senatorial candidate.

Then a little later he wired the same County Judges that they should disregard his earlier message, as the case would go before the Supreme Court of Texas Monday morning.

Mr. Staples sent the first telegram when he was advised of the overruling of a motion for a rehearing of the case before the Fifth Civil Appeals Court at Dallas.

He sent the second after he had been advised of the application for a writ of error to the Supreme Court in Austin.

Attorney General Keeling Sunday afternoon wired Luther Nickels at Dallas, agreeing to waive everything to permit the case coming before the Supreme Court the first thing Monday morning. This action following telegrams from Mr. Nickels to the Attorney General and Secretary of State citing authorities.

The Supreme Court late Monday overruled a motion by anti-Mayfield attorneys for leave to file mandamus application seeking to set aside the decree of the Dallas court of civil appeals dissolving the Groesbeck injunction suit.

The application, which was submitted shortly before noon, was before the Supreme Court less than three hours before it was overruled.

The court also refused to consider the supplemental application submitted this afternoon which attacked the validity of the mandate issued by the Dallas court this morning. No opinion was entered in the case.

Immediately following the court's action, C. M. Payne, acting secretary of State in the absence of Secretary Staples, dispatched telegrams to all county judges in the State advising them of the decision and stating that it is now their duty to put Mr. Mayfield's name on the election ballots.

The telegrams were as follows: "All injunctions every character dissolved and supreme court has refused application for mandamus. Advice of attorney general's department is that this completely settles the question and it is your duty to immediately print and distribute ballots bearing Mayfield's name."

Peddy counsel, shortly after noon today, filed a new motion for rehearing of the Corsicana ballot injunction appeal, but the Fifth court of civil appeals, in an opinion handed down later in the day, refused to consider the petition on the ground that the new motion was improperly filed and that the court finally disposed of the Corsicana injunction when it refused the motion for rehearing filed on Saturday.

PEDDY WOUND UP HIS CAMPAIGN

Content to Leave the Issue to the Conscience of the Voters of Texas

(Associated Press) EL PASO, Nov. 6.—George E. B. Peddy, nominated by independent democrats and the republican State executive committee for United States senator, tonight expressed confidence that he would be elected despite the fact that his name will not appear on the ballots as a result of action in Texas courts.

Mr. Peddy, avowed anti-Ku Klux Klan, made his closing speech here tonight and also issued a statement.

"Texans will cast their ballots tomorrow under the most unusual circumstances that ever confronted the people of an American State," the statement began.

The statement then traced the various legal actions by which Peddy's name was barred from the ballot and that of his opponent, Earle B. Mayfield, finally was permitted on the ballots by the supreme court late today. The statement contended that both decisions were based on technicalities.

"My name was barred from the republican ticket on a technicality," the statement concluded. "Mr. Mayfield's name may be on the ballot by virtue of an eleventh hour court ruling in reckless disregard of a record of facts that must challenge the conscience of free citizens. I am content to leave the issue to the conscience of the voters of my State in full confidence that they will write a winning ballot tomorrow."

REVISION OF THE ELECTION LAW

In an elaborate statement Fred W. Davis of San Antonio, chairman of the State democratic executive committee, sets forth that every person who votes against any of the democratic nominees in the election to be held today is to be penalized therefor two years hence by being denied participation in the primaries; and he makes the positive assertion that the election law is to be thoroughly revised by the legislature during the coming session.

Chairman Davis was one of the advocates for a strong test in the democratic primaries held in July and August of this year.

Such a test was adopted by the State committee, some of the members of which foresaw complications as a result of the inclusion of the name of James E. Ferguson as one of the candidates in the primary. But the test was not generally adopted—in fact, only five counties saw fit to accept the recommendation of the State executive committee; which has only recommendatory authority in such matters.

But this matter of expelling those who have not voted the ticket according to pledge is not the only thing in the election law which needs revision and there are those who believe that the entire law should be rewritten and so simplified that it may be understood by the average voter—and in its present form even good lawyers disagree as to the effect of the law in vital points.

For one thing, jurisdiction in election matters should be lodged in the supreme court as a court of original action as well as final jurisdiction to the end that it will be impossible to create such a situation as now exists when legal proceedings have extended to a point where it is impossible for the election officials to carry out the orders of various courts; and where the time limit has been absolutely exhausted.

The present situation is one absolutely unfair to the people of Texas. The effect upon the candidates is a secondary matter; but the voters are now affected and they have been subjected to an injustice most gross and one which is bound to react unfavorably upon the esteem in which The Law and the courts are held.

The Barton Bedtime Stories

Copyright 1922 by Associated Newspapers

Chatter's widow was a very sick squirrel. Sick enough to keep Dr. Muskrat and Silkears Rabbit and Ripple Beaver all busy for a while. But she'd have to be dead not to get well under the wonderful care they gave her.

Not that Dr. Muskrat ever let her know he was worried. "Just keep her quiet," he told Silkears. "It's only a bullet wound." (As if bullet wounds were common as briar scratches.) "I'll be back with a fresh poultice in another hour." Off he hurried to talk over her other troubles with the woodfolk who were waiting by his stone.

"Hm!" sniffed Nibble's kind little mate, inspecting the place where the invalid had been hiding. It was the home Nibble had dug for Maltie Kitten. (Little did he think it would ever be a squirrel hospital.) "Quiet! That's not much of a bed to be quiet on."

"It's all right," said the brave squirrel. "Only it's rather sick and stuffy. I guess I'm not used to an earth hole."

"That isn't the earth's fault, then," returned the bunny. "Earth holes are all right. I've lived all my life in one. Let's see what's wrong." She began to house-clean. "What's this? A mouse home? A crawfish shell? Dirt! Dust! Mould! Spiders! Oh, Maltie Kitten, what housekeeping!" She sent everything flying. Then with Ripple Beaver's help she whisked in a bed of grass, springy, soft and sweet scented.

Next they washed the patient with tender tongues. Not till every bedraggled hair was smooth in place did they help her climb in and settle down. "Now," said Silkears, "don't tell me you don't feel like eating."

"I believe I really do," breathed the squirrel. "I do believe I could eat a hickory nut if I could gnaw it open."

"My teeth are working," Ripple saw this was her turn. "Which is the tastiest tree?" In no time all she was back with a whole mouthful all nicely shucked. Just one crunch of her fine big teeth split open each shell. She has a whole row of milky nut meats under Madam Chatter's paw when Chips called her to start home.

"How kind you are!" sighed the grateful widow. "How very kind. And how I'm going to miss you when you're gone."

"The joke is," said Silkears, triumphantly. "I don't go. See this tunnel behind you? It runs right to my hole. I can come down it any time you call. Now go to sleep and get well. And she tiptoed off to remind Dr. Muskrat about the poultice.

ANSWERED FIRE CALL

WITHOUT MAKING A RUN

The fire department had the novel experience yesterday of a fire being brought to it to be put out. A stranger driving a small Ford truck drew up in front of the municipal building at 5:30 o'clock in the evening, and going to the fire station without being the least excited he asked if he could get a bucket of water, explaining that his truck was on fire. One of the firemen seized an extinguisher and put it out. It had caught from the carburetor back-firing. The damage was slight.

REPUBLICANS ARE MAKING AN EFFORT

Have Put up Congressional Candidates in Most of the Southern States

(Associated Press)

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 6.—Tomorrow will see the outcome of one of the most vigorous campaigns the republicans ever have conducted in the South when the voters of all parties go to the polls to name a full Southern representation in the lower house of congress, select United States senators from Florida, Georgia, Mississippi and Virginia, in addition to electing governors in Georgia, Alabama, South Carolina and Tennessee.

The republicans have candidates in the field in all of the ten Virginia congressional districts, nine of North Carolina's ten and other districts scattered throughout the South. They have centered their fight largely in Tennessee, however, where a determined campaign has been conducted on pleas of endorsement of both State and National republican administrations with Governor A. A. Taylor, republican incumbent seeking reelection over Austin Peay, democrat, and Newell Sanders, former United States senator, trying to overthrow K. D. McKellar, democrat, the present senator.

In addition to the election of congressmen and State officers, several States will pass on constitutional amendments. The voters of Arkansas will have before them an amendment to provide for the enactment or rejection by the people at the polls of legislative measures, laws and amendments to the constitution independent of the general assembly.

Alabama will vote on an extension of credit of the State for development of the port of Mobile, while people of Florida will ballot on an amendment authorizing reapportionment of the State in accordance with population to change representation in the legislature.

GREAT OIL FIRE IN THE EL DORADO FIELD

(Associated Press)

ELDORADO, Ark., Nov. 6.—More than 100,000 barrels of crude oil in the Smackover fields, near here, which escaped from burning storage tanks are a fire tonight in Smackover Creek, which runs through the section and is a roaring furnace for several miles, reports from there state.

The oil was stored in earth reservoir which burst during the heavy rains early today allowing the oil to escape into nearby streams. A number of flowing wells in the section have been abandoned and all efforts to control the flames have been unavailing.

BUILDING THE SCAFFOLD FOR EZZELLE STEPP

(Associated Press)

MCKINNEY, Nov. 6.—The scaffold on which Ezzelle Stepp is sentenced to be hanged November 17 is nearing completion. The scaffold is enclosed on all sides and covered over the top. It is being built in the south portion of the jail yard and the condemned man can plainly hear the carpenter's hammers.

Stepp is under death sentence for the alleged murder of Hardy Mills. A petition has been circulated for several days which is to be presented to Governor Pat M. Neff asking that his sentence be commuted to life imprisonment.

WILLIAM NOW WALKS WITH HIS PRINCESS

(Associated Press)

DOORN, Holland, Nov. 6.—William Hohenzollern's walks, solitary no longer, were continued around the castle grounds today. With his new wife, arm in arm, he visited the rose pavilion where not long ago he made his proposal of marriage. Soon the bridal couple retired indoors, as it rained heavily.

William saw his sister-in-law, Princess Ida of Stolberg, to the Amersfort station, while Frederick William, the erstwhile crown prince, took his new mother (whom, however, he doesn't call mother) for a drive.

ALLIES WILL KEEP MILITARY CONTROL

(Associated Press)

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 6.—Though the nationalist civil power is in control in Constantinople, the entente does not intend for the present, at least, to lose its grip on the military authority. Great Britain and France are in accord on the point that the Turks must live up to the convention drawn up at Madania, and it is not doubted that the other allied countries will fall into line with this policy.

MUST APPLY AS NEW MEN ON KATY SYSTEM

(Associated Press)

PARSONS, Kan., Nov. 6.—C. N. Whitehead, chief operating officer of the Katy told approximately 1,000 union shop workers today that no settlement of the shop house strike would be made through the American Federation of Labor.

Mr. Whitehead told the men the only way they could return would be to apply for positions as new Katy workmen.

TELEGRAMS RECEIVED BY JUDGE HUTCHISON

County Judge W. L. Hutchison received a telegram at 8 o'clock Sunday night from S. L. Staples, secretary of State, informing him that the restriction against printing Mayfield's name on the ballot had been withdrawn. Yesterday morning he received a second telegram from the secretary of State telling him to pay no attention to his previous message, as the case would be tried in the courts during the day.

At 7:15 o'clock last night Judge Hutchison received a message from McLean, Scott & McLean, the attorneys for Mayfield, saying that the supreme court had granted a writ of mandamus, and that he was at liberty to go on and have the tickets printed with Mayfield's name on.
Judge Hutchison said the telegram was the first intimation he had of the mandamus, and he didn't know the nature of it or what it was about. He said he wasn't printing any tickets last night and that he didn't regard the telegram from the attorneys as official notice.

The distribution of the tickets to the various voting boxes in Lamar county without Mayfield's name on them was completed Sunday.

SHERIFF BROWN LEAVES FOR MEMPHIS, TENN.

Last Wednesday a young man named McCann hired a service car from Guy Spain, stating that he would be gone about three hours. He has not brought the car back yet. After having waited a reasonable length of time the owner reported the matter to the officers.

Yesterday morning the city marshal of Memphis, Tenn., wired Chief Harrell here making inquiry about an automobile of a certain description that he had spotted as probably having been stolen.

The description was found to fit the Spain car, and the Memphis officer was requested to arrest and hold him.

Later in the day Sheriff Brown received word from the Memphis officers that McCann would return without requisition papers and the sheriff left last night to bring him back. Guy Spain went with him.

MAKING GOOD PROGRESS AT THE NEW RESERVOIR

City Engineer M. C. Welborn states that work at the new reservoir is getting along nicely at present. Another elevator grader has been put on, which makes four that are now at work, and the pipe line has been built within a mile and a half of the reservoir, but it is being delayed now by not having enough pipe to go ahead.

It is not the fault of transportation. The freight situation, Mr. Welborn said, seems to have cleared up. The pipe is not being made fast enough at the foundry.

Work on the water tower is getting along well and it will be finished in a month. The water consumers will be using water from it before the first of January. They won't have to wait for the new reservoir to be completed. The city can connect up with the present line.

Pay your water bill by the 10th and save a dollar.

He was born and reared in Paris and was 23 years old. The remains will be brought here for burial, but it was not known last night when they would arrive.

BRAKEMAN O. W. HANNA HAS SERIOUS FALL

Oscar W. Hanna, a brakeman on the Frisco at Hugo, who has been working a few days as an extra brakeman in the Paris yards with a switching crew, met with a serious accident at 9 o'clock Sunday morning. He was engaged in switching some boxcars from the point of a switch, some of them being switched to one track and others to another.

He climbed a boxcar after it had been switched to set the brake to keep it from rolling back. While on top of the car he lost his balance and fell from the back end a distance of twelve feet.

One of his arms was broken near the elbow and the hand of the other arm was broken. He was also hurt in the shoulder, back and head. He was carried to the sanitarium and his condition was reported very favorable yesterday, although the injury is said to be serious.

Mr. Hanna is an old employee of the Frisco, his first employment on the road dating back thirty years or more. During that time he has had some narrow escapes. He has been in two or three bad wrecks where the engineer and fireman were killed, while he escaped although he was seriously injured. He has also been in numerous smaller wrecks.

He was out of the service of the railroad company for a while. During the time that he was off the road he served one or two terms as mayor of Hugo.

the State police under a sergeant from the Greensburg barracks took over the situation.

Linenmen and electricians began to string wires and place lights at advantageous points in order that the work might go on through the night.

A drizzling rain which fell throughout the day had no effect upon the crowd, which included the wives and children of many of the entombed miners. Some of them wept almost all day long, but others stood in silence and closely watched the cage every time it came up the shaft, occasionally thinking they saw the outlines of a familiar form. They were so far away, however, and the bodies were so completely covered that recognition was impossible.

But it gave rise to the belief that all of the closely wrapped forms were bodies of the dead and fostered reports that no less than twenty-five of the dead had been recovered.

Mike Whalen, a cager, was working with his coupler, a lad Cavendish, at the bottom of the shaft when the explosion occurred. Seizing the boy, Whalen put him on his back and started hand over hand on a water pipe for the surface. When almost half way up some one at the top started the cage from the bottom, and waiting his opportunity Whalen jumped to the top of the cage and rode with the boy to safety.

J. J. Bourquin, in charge of the bureau of mine force, took over the rescue work upon his arrival here this afternoon. The fan house, which had been wrecked by the explosion, was quickly repaired and the fans started to clear the workings of black damp. Mules were sent down on the cage to assist in the distribution of quantities of lumber used in the building of brattices.

Many of the rescuers suffered from gas and numbers of them were brought to the surface where after receiving first aid they insisted on returning to the workings.

Spangler lies in the Allegheny mountains in Cambria county, some 25 miles north of Johnstown, and is the center of an important bituminous coal producing district. The Reilly mine was closed last summer by the strike, but resumed operations early in September. Normally it employs about 150 men, but Monday is usually what the miners term a slow day. There are many American-born miners in the working force, numbers of whom were caught in the explosion.

Most of the young men lay on a double row of cots in the miner's hospital here tonight, anxiously watching the entrance to the big into the mine this morning a few minutes before the explosion.

Their vigil began when the first eight were brought to the hospital. The entrance of the stretcher bearers meant that another comrade had been dragged from the underground sea of gas.

The rescued men all told the same story as they came to the surface. They declared that bodies were scattered through workings for more than 500 feet.

"The sad part of it," said one sturdy miner "is that at least 20 of the victims were within a hundred feet of fresh air when they were overcome by the gas."

Men, women and children by the score crowded the police lines near the shafts.

Many of them had been there since they heard of the explosion early in the day and there was no indication that they would leave their posts until the last body had been brought out.

"On the cot of honor," at the hospital rests a youth of 22. His name is Craig. His coolness saved at least a dozen lives.

"There is not much to tell," said Craig. "We went down at 7 o'clock and entered heading number 10 on the left. A few minutes later there was a crash. I told the boys that meant a cave-in and we had better get out. There was a rush of gas. Luckily our door was open or the explosion would have knocked it down. I slammed the door shut and about 25 of us waited to see what would happen."

"Outside there were yells and one of our gang shouted to tell them there was fresh air in our place. I opened the door and three or four men staggered in. The boys rushed out and dragged in others. We revived them."

"Then I looked out again. All I could see was bodies. The after-damp was rolling the heading. I jumped inside and closed the door. There was nothing to do but to wait for rescuers."

"From 7:30 until about 8 o'clock we stayed in the chamber. Older men were getting faint. Younger fellows were holding out pretty well. Nobody had very much to say. Some of the boys were praying."

"Finally the after-damp worked its way round and under the door. There was only one thing to do. I told them to make a run for it. We opened the door and ran down the heading. It was a tough dash, stumbling over bodies. We began to choke. Some of the boys fell, but those of us who had any fight left kept on."

"We ran into a fallen rock between the seventh and ninth headings. That was probably where the explosion took place."

"I had a hunch that if we got to the sixth heading we would get fresh air, but you can believe me that the last hundred yards was something awful. Coughing and strangling, we kept on, and finally I ran 'lam bang into the air. I was dizzy but I screamed to the boys, 'Head up! Head up! Head up!'

"Then I heard men coming and

They got us out. Only the young men made it. I am afraid all the older men lost their lives."

FIFTEEN THOUSAND OLD CONFEDERATES

A Hundred of Them Dropped from the Pension Rolls During the Past Year

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 6.—The ranks of Confederate veterans in Texas is slowly thinning. This fact is shown by the number of veterans on the pension lists of the State.

The number of pensioners at the close of the fiscal year, ending August 31, totaled 14,862, or approximately 100 less than the number at the close of the preceding year, according to the annual report of the pension division of the State comptroller's department.

In 1921, there were 14,960 pensioners on the lists.

Texas still claims the honor of having the largest number of Confederate pensioners of any of the Southern States, according to statistics compiled by the National headquarters of the United Confederate Veterans. Georgia and Arkansas are the closest competitors with Texas, each of these States having approximately 9,000 pensioners.

Of the nearly 15,000 Texas pensioners, 472 are now in State homes, the annual report shows. Of this number, 97 are in the women's Confederate home, and 375 in the home for men, both located in Austin. A total of 376 inmates of the State homes are drawing pensions, which amounts to approximately $13.50 per quarter. Those living outside the homes received $25 at the last payment, which is the largest quarterly installment ever received.

Expenditures for Confederate pensions during the past year amounted to $1,523,378, the annual report shows, while in 1921, expenditures amounted to $1,422,480.

During the past fiscal year, 1,636 Confederate veterans died, while 929 were put on the pension list. One of the striking facts of the pensioners' lists is the increasing number of widows who are taking the places of veterans on the rolls.

Statistics of the National department show that more than 8,000 of the Texas pensioners are widows. Texas began paying her Confederate veterans in 1899, records of the comptroller's department show. The records indicate that less than 400 veterans were paid pensions in that year by the State.

Congregational Sunday Services

The services at the Congregational church on Sunday were well attended and two excellent sermons were preached by the pastor, Rev. Forest J. Garman.

At the morning hour, his theme was "The Coming of the Lord," based on the text, Philippians 3: 20-21. This was only a brief, though inspiring discourse, as the communion was observed afterward.

In the evening, the song service was a feature, and everyone joined in it heartily.

Mr. Garman's sermon was on "A Good Man and a Bad Man," taken from Matthew 12:33-37. He emphasized the ways in which one may recognize a good man, though his own manifestation of character and personality.

The Christian Endeavor program on "Better Thinking" was a well-carried out lesson.

First Baptist Ladies' Auxiliary

The Ladies Auxiliary of the First Baptist church met yesterday afternoon at the church, for the first session of the church year, with the new president, Mrs. Klaeger, in the chair.

Mrs. Pison gave the devotional service, and Mrs. W. M. Wright offered a prayer.

The annual report showed a great increase in the auxiliary work, which is very encouraging.

The ladies decided to hold their Christmas bazaar during the first week in December, the date to be announced later.

PARIS POSTOFFICE BUSINESS GROWS

It Is Now the Biggest That Has Ever Been Known in Its History

The business transacted by the postoffice is said to be the best indication of the growth of a city, and judged by this standard Paris is rapidly recovering from the general dull times that have affected the entire country. The Paris postoffice at present is doing the biggest business that has been known in its history.

The postoffice handles daily on an average about 30,000 letters and about 400 sacks of parcels and papers. The matter handled amounts to about twenty-five or thirty truck loads a day. It will be conceded that it is no small job to handle this amount of mail, especially when it is considered that it all has to be handled two or three times and some of it as much as four or five times.

A good portion of the mail matter is registered, insured or sent collect and has to be receipted for. The office is handling this increase with the normal force.

WORK OF AMERICANS FOR ANCIENT PALESTINE

Malaria has been almost stamped out in Palestine and trachoma has been reduced by one third by the work of the American Zionist Medical Unit, says Dr. I. M. Rubinov, head of that organization. The unit has been at work here for three years combating these two scourges of Palestine.

Dr. Rubinov added that the unit year in this work of which about equal shares were contributed by the Joint Distribution committee and the Woman's Organization Hadassah, both of America.

Four hundred thousand persons annually visit the clinics maintained by the medical unit there and all nationalities are welcomed. In addition, the unit maintains 275 beds in hospitals in Jerusalem and Jaffa. At present its main work is in taking care of Jewish immigrants, conducting campaigns for sanitation among the school children and teaching them how to be healthy and strong.

The work of the unit is both sanitary and medical.

First Skyscraper Church

CHICAGO, Ill., Nov. 6.—Dedicated as a symbol of the permeating influence of the religion of the home, business and public life, and in all national and international affairs, the cornerstone of the First Methodist Episcopal Church, the world's first skyscraper cathedral, was laid with appropriate ceremonies today.

Located in the heart of the busy "Loop," at Washington and Clark streets, the building, when completed early next year, will tower more than twenty-one stories above the street.

The ground floor and the first three or four stories will be largely devoted to religious purposes. Above will be offices devoted to the various offices of the Christian church and of business enterprises.

"The building is both a parable and a lesson," declared Bishop Thomas Nicholson, in his address at the cornerstone laying. "It is a symbol of how religion should vitalize and permeate all our relations."

Declaring that the world, as never before, is looking to the pulpit and the church for a solution of its problems, Dr. John Thompson, the pastor of the church, declared that "new party alignments are an imperative necessity. The old party shibboleths are valueless. That is why the public lacks enthusiasm in either city or State or National elections. The church will have to train her own statesmen."

Charles G. Dawes, another speaker, declared that the church, the shadow of whose spire when completed will rest across the heart of the business section of the city, stood as a bulwark for constitutional government and progress. "We are getting too far away from the foundations of government interests, from the church and from the home," he added.

WINTER ICE CREAM HAS BEEN NAMED

'Pep' Is the Suggestion Which Drew the Cash Prize for Donald Hathaway

"Pep" hasn't yet been recognized by Mr. Webster. At least, he hasn't put it in his well known and justly celebrated dictionary.

But it has a lot of meaning, just the same. It is one of those words that fills a long felt want, so to speak. It is, in fact, so well known now that it doesn't make much difference whether it is in the dictionary or not—we all recognize it.

Its meaning has been extended by Donald Hathaway, who has used it to describe briefly that new winter ice cream which Velvet Bob has recently put on the market and for doing so Mr. Hathaway has been given a check for $25. Velvet Bob had an idea that new cream is just as much appreciated in the winter time as it is in summer; only there is a difference. He figured it out and put a lot more butter fat in the winter ice cream than he does in the summer; which makes it somewhat tastier and gives the body what it requires. In summer the body does not need so much butter fat as it does in winter, hence a palatable ice cream for winter must carry more of that particular ingredient to serve the same purpose.

Then Velvet Bob experimented with the flavors and made a number of blends, finally reaching the point which he needed. The flavor carries a bit more sweetness than does the summer cream and for the very same reason—the body requires a greater content of sweet in the winter than it does in summer; and the taste of the cream is, therefore, somewhat richer to meet this demand. Having solved these two points for the new Velvet product, a reward of $25 was offered for the most appropriate name; and that went to Hathaway for the highly descriptive suggestion which brought him a sudden accession of wealth.

Pep is to be extensively distributed and advertised and it is well for the dispensers of winter drinks and delicacies to get their orders in.

DAY BEFORE ELECTION WAS UNUSUALLY QUIET

The day before the election in Paris was so devoid of excitement that there was nothing scarcely to serve as a reminder that today was election day. The election was scarcely discussed at all on the streets and nobody had an opportunity to become unduly excited. But notwithstanding the seeming lack of interest it was predicted by some that there will be a big turnout at the polls.

TRAGEDY MARKED HERMINE'S LIFE

Bride of William Hohenzollern Has Eccentric Family Connections

THE HAGUE, Nov. 6.—Princess Hermine of Reuss, almost unknown even in her native Germany two months ago, is today one of the most conspicuous women in Europe for she has united her life to that of the former German Emperor, William Hohenzollern, and this also makes her "Queen of Prussia"—empty though the title be.

The new chapter in Princess Hermine's life constitutes her second matrimonial venture, and comes after she has struggled for more than 20 years through the vale of sadness and misfortune that has pursued her unhappy family. But as most of this ill luck began when political differences arose between the House of Reuss and the government of ex-Emperor William, there are many in Germany today who, perhaps governed a little by superstition in their reasoning, believe that the marriage will break the long spell of misfortune and that hereafter the Reuss household will be in the ascendency.

Political clouds, however, have not been the only clouds hovering above the ancient Reuss manor. Financial reverses, deception, blasted romances and insanity have been familiar shadows to the five daughters and one son that grace the hearth of Princess Hermine of Reuss—an eccentric autocrat who died when Princess Hermine was still in her cradle.

The House of Reuss is composed of two branches—the elder and the younger line, and all the princes have been named Henry for the past 800 years. In the elder line this name has gone on unbroken to the present heir, Prince Henry XXIV; but in the younger branch the sons have been so numerous that a special rule was made to begin a new series of numbers every hundred years. Even this has had its drawbacks, for the 18th century produced exactly 74 Henrys, and the following hundred years gave 50 more of them to the world.

The father of Princess Hermine carried his autocracy to such an extreme that he would not allow a house to be erected in his capital or a tree to be cut down without his official sanction. When any of the public school children were spanked, he insisted upon doing it himself, holding that as he was the father of his country, he alone was qualified for the task.

His gloomy palace at Greiz was devoid of every modern comfort, for the old prince believed it would be a sacrilege to change anything that had been good enough for his ancestors. There was no running water, no bath tub and no sanitary equipment of any kind, while the cooking was done in kitchens so far away from the diningroom that the dishes arrived on the table stone cold, with their contents uneatable.

While the old prince was usually so busy with what he believed to be "affairs of state" that he had little if any time left for his daughters, he was, nevertheless, deeply affected by the tragedy of his infant son, brother of Princess Hermine.

The child, despite the fact that he was deaf and dumb, was idolized by his mother, Princess Ida of Schaumburg-Lippe; and when it was decided that he should undergo an operation to correct some defect of the eyes, she insisted upon holding him on her knees while the surgeons worked.

At the most critical moment of the operation, she suddenly recoiled in terror and thrust the boy's head forward in such a manner that the surgeon's lancet was driven deep into the eye and on into the brain. He has been completely blind and an imbecile from that moment.

Princess Ida, overcome with remorse, died soon afterward, while the father was so seriously regarding the affliction of his only son that he decreed against any mention being made of it, and even prohibited the church from offering special prayers for his recovery. The prince and later his daughters traveled over Europe seeking specialists who could restore the boy's mind, but none ever was found who would undertake the delicate operation. He is still alive and still insane. His one amusement is the theater, where he has a special box to screen him from the public gaze. He hears nothing and it is said that he understands nothing of what is taking place upon the stage, yet he insists upon being taken to the theater every day, whether there is a play running or not.

The five daughters of Prince Henry married in quick succession following the death of their father, two of them becoming the wives of Austrian counts. Princess Hermine received her first proposal of marriage when she was 18. It seems that she had volunteered to act as peacemaker in the ruffled domestic affairs of her sister, Princess Carolina, who had married the Grand Duke William Ernest of Saxe-Weimar, but hardly had a reconciliation been effected when Carolina died and the grand duke found that he was in love with the intercessor. Hermine consented to marry him on condition that he dismiss a certain majordomo from his staff—a man she disliked intensely—but the duke refused her request and the match fell through.

Two years later she married Prince Von Schoenach-Carolath, an officer of the Uhlan Guards, who died a few years later. The princess had five children by that marriage, the eldest of whom is 15. She had intended taking them to Doorn to reside with her in her new home, but arrangements have since been made to have them live in a specially built house outside the ex-emperor's estate. This step was taken in deference to the wishes of William's own children.

The meeting between ex-Emperor William and the princess occurred more than a year ago, and came through rather unusual circumstances. It seems that the young son wrote a letter of condolence to Doorn, following the death of the former empress. The reply was written by William and addressed to the boy's mother, and thus their correspondence began. Some months later they were asked to visit the former monarch, and it is said that three days after Princess Hermine arrived at Doorn she had consented to become the wife of the famous exile.

She is 35 years of age, tall and of truly regal bearing. Many there are who declare that she still possesses much of that beauty for which, as a girl, she was noted throughout Southern Germany.

A Bit Skeptical.
Country doctors after using stethoscope on patient: "Well, I've located the seat of your trouble, William."

Old Bill Jones (heretofore healthy, man and boy): "I hope so, Doc, but to tell truth I ain't got no faith in divinin' rods, be they old-fashioned or new-fangled."

The Surprise.
He'd seen the geishas of far Japan, for he'd sailed the seven oceans; he'd seen the beauties of Yucatan, all dressed in funny notions. In Turkey he'd smoked a water pipe as he watched the dancing fairies; Egyptian damsels, early ripe, likewise in Buenos Aires. Years since he'd left the old home nest, though then the girls dressed jaunty. He left them dressed in their Sunday best and returned to find them scanty.

He'd seen women galore on every shore, from Turkistan to Thibet. But when he got home he roundly swore: "Prohibition does not prohibit."

The Thirty Years' War, 1618 to 1648, was considered by military critics to be the most devastating war in the world war. It involved all of Europe and was based largely on religion.

Get the Necessities First —The Luxuries Will Follow

Homes are not set with diamonds; nor do they run around on rubber tires. But all is not gold that glitters, you know! You can't lose a home very easily, and it won't depreciate in value as the days go by. In fact, homes usually increase in value steadily!

Build a home first—a necessity for thrift, happiness and a greater citizenship—and the luxuries will follow in their natural order.

SPOTS REFUSED TO FOLLOW A DECLINE

As a Result the Futures Market Worked Back to Nearly the Close of Saturday

NEW ORLEANS, Nov. 6.—While moderately wide reactions from the advance featured a good part of the session in cotton today, the tone was very steady in the late trading and at one time the active positions were back within 5 to 8 points of the closing level of Saturday while the close itself showed net losses on the day of but 5 to 19 points. At one time the market showed losses of 37 to 43 points. December traded as low as 24.38, came back to 24.70 and closed at 24.60. The volume of business all through the day was very heavy.

Comment today indicated that many of the traders entertained expectations ranging from 8,300,000 up to 8,500,000 bales. Lowest prices were reached shortly after the middle of the morning. After that the tone was steadier on persistent reports from the interior that spots were refusing to follow the decline. These reports had marked effect in the late trading when shorts covered in a large way. Locally spots were quoted 25 points up, which raised middling up to 24.85.

DESIRE FOR PROFITS IN THE COTTONSEED OILS

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Cottonseed oil advanced 1 to 9 points at the outset, broke from 10 to 25 points and closed at a net loss of 3 to 12 points. A desire for profits and liquidation on downturn in cotton caused the decline. The market had a steadier appearance at the start. Sales 31,600 barrels. Prime crude 8.00 bid; prime summer yellow spot 9.00; December 9.05; March 9.45; May 9.66, all bid.

COTTON GOODS FIRM DEMAND NOT SO BROAD

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—Cotton goods were firm today with the demand less broad. New sheeting lists, it was reported, are being prepared on a higher price basis.

Some Southern gingham and colored goods were advanced half a cent a yard. Cotton yarns were firm, with sales less active. Raw silk advanced a little during the day. Higher prices were named on some of the spring staples in dress goods. Burlaps were steadier with an upward tendency.

Paris Cotton Market

Wagon receipts Saturday 192. Wagon receipts Monday 165. Receipts for the season 18,920. Price paid Saturday 23 1-2 to 26 cents. Price paid Monday 23 1-2 to 26 cents.

RAW SUGAR STEADY NO CHANGE IN REFINED

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The raw sugar market was steady and unchanged at 3 3-4 cents for Cubas cost and freight, equal to 5.53 for centrifugal. There were sales of 5,000 bags of Cubas afloat at quoted prices. Raw sugar futures closing: December 3.73; March 3.24; May 3.38; July 3.51.

There were no changes in refined sugars which are quoted at 6.90 to 7.00 for fine granulated. Refined futures nominal.

COFFEE A BIT LOWER ON VERY GOOD SALES

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The market for coffee futures 9.45 to 9.52. Sales were estimated at about 16,000 bags. December 9.69; January 9.63; March 9.51; May 9.32; July 9.02; September 8.72. Spot coffee steady; Rio 7s 10 3-4 Santos 4s 15 and 15 3-8.

GOOD RECEIPTS IN THE CATTLE DIVISION

FORT WORTH, Texas, Nov. 6.—The general market on cattle was steady Monday. Calves sold steady. Receipts amounted to almost 5,000 head of cattle and 6,000 head that were not on the market.

PACKERS WENT ALMOST TO SHIPPERS PRICES

FORT WORTH, Texas, Nov. 6.—Shippers bought hogs in line with late last week; their top being 8.25; but the packer market was 5 to 10 cents higher, the top being 8.20. Most of the run sold at 8.00 and 8.25. Pigs brought 7.00 and 7.50. Hogs house receipts amounted to 2,500 head.

MATERIAL ADVANCE WAS MADE IN WHEAT

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—Disquieting reports of a new crisis at the Danubian led to material advance today in the value of wheat. The market closed unsettled 3/4 cents to 1 3-4 net higher, with December 1.16 to 1.16 1/2 and May 1.15 1/2 to 1.15 3/4. Corn gained 1/4 to 1 cent and oats 1/4 to 1/2. In provisions the outcome varied from 2 cents decline to a rise of 15 cents.

Corn and oats reflected the action of wheat despite reports that foreigners were out of the market for corn and that Argentina was underselling the United States.

Provisions averaged higher with hogs and on signs of good cash demand.

GIANT ZEPPELIN FOR UNITED STATES

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Nov. 6.—The keel has been laid for the giant Zeppelin to be built for the United States government under the contract signed June 6. ACTS OF VIOLENCE DAILY REPORTED

Government's Attorney Condemns That Strike Injunction Is Still Needed

CHICAGO, Nov. 6.—Opposite views on the present status of the shop crafts strike were presented today before Federal Judge James P. Wilkerson, counsel for the shopmen contending that the strike no longer exists while Assistant Attorney General Blackburn Easterline, representing the government, filed an affidavit that the condition complained of when the bill was filed still exists.

Further hearing of the case was continued until Wednesday morning when the attorneys will resume argument and denial of the five points on which Donald R. Richburg, attorney for the shopmen, sought dismissal of the temporary restraining order.

Because of the fact that a number of railroads (about 125) have signed agreements terminating the strike and that the settlement of the strike is now up to the chairmen of system federations and not the national officers of the organization, Mr. Richburg argued, continuance of the injunction, "is useless and discreditable to the administration of justice."

Unequivocally denying that acts of violence, intimidation and destruction of railroad property have occurred as claimed by counsel for the shop crafts attorney Easterline said that numerous disorders occurred during October and now are being reported almost daily.

In support of his assertions, he placed in the record an affidavit signed by E. P. Bracken, vice-president of the Chicago, Burlington, and Quincy, in which he alleged that acts of violence by the strikers occurred during the month of October.

Additional affidavits placed in the record were made by present employees of the Missouri, Kansas and Texas, the Missouri Pacific, the Kansas City Southern and the Rock Island.

GEORGIA GRAND JURY CHARGED ON OUTRAGE

MACON, Ga., Nov. 6.—Judge Malcolm D. Jones in addressing the Bibb county grand jury which began its work today in the November term of superior court, referred to the "outrage that occurred on College street Saturday night," the kidnapping and assault upon R. F. Mills.

Branding is as an "atrocity," he said: "If these things are allowed to go on it will destroy our democracy, our government by law and destroy our civilization. It will develop into a government by people who elect themselves and select their own victims."

ON WAY TO DEAD MOTHER TWO KILLED AT CROSSING

MUSKOGEE, Mich., Nov. 6.—Mrs. Alva Love of Scottville and her brother, George Fletcher, a Muskogee merchant, were killed and three other persons seriously injured late today when a Pere Marquette train struck an automobile near Sparta.

Mrs. Love and Fletcher were en route to Lansing where their mother died during the afternoon, when the accident occurred.

A BITTER CAMPAIGN WAGED IN OKLAHOMA

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Nov. 6.—Oklahoma ended its most bitter political campaign tonight with virtually all interest centered on the contest for governor between J. C. Walton, democrat, and John Fields, republican.

With fair weather predicted for tomorrow politicians and election officials predicted the vote would be the largest in the State's history, running around 500,000.

Walton has the endorsement of the farmer-labor element of the State and Fields has made his campaign as a conservative.

WILKINSON TO RETIRE ON NEXT THURSDAY

MUSKOGEE, Okla., Nov. 6.—John Wilkinson, president of district 21 United Mine Workers of America, since 1916, announced tonight that he would formally resign from the post next Thursday. Wilkinson was a candidate for reelection in the balloting for district officers last week, the result of which has not been announced. The district comprises Oklahoma, Arkansas and Texas.

ANOTHER NOTE WAS SENT TO GERMANY

BERLIN, Nov. 6.—The reparations commission today handed the German government another note impressing upon Germany the necessity of making more definite proposals for the stabilization of the mark and reminding the government of its engagements undertaken last July with regard to the regulation of Germany's finances.

The Straight Line

When a railroad is constructed from one town to another engineers strive to make the line as straight as possible. Because a straight route is shortest, quickest and least costly.

Business furnishes a parallel case—the line between the man who makes something and the man who wants something.

TURKEYS! TURKEYS!

This year we expect to see a good market for Thanksgiving turkeys. In order to get them to the Eastern consumers it will be necessary to start them earlier than usual, as it takes practically twice as long to get a freight car to the Eastern markets now as it did under normal conditions; the strike is not settled by any means.

You should pick out your large birds, gobblers weighing 12 pounds and over; hens weighing 8 pounds and over, that are in good condition and bring them in for the Thanksgiving market not later than the 15th of November. However, it appears that with the large crop in view that the best prices will be paid between the 1st and the 10th of November, will probably lower prices starting about the 11th. WE ADVISE EARLY MOVEMENT OF YOUR LARGE TURKEYS. Hold the small ones for the Christmas market. Our dressing stations open October 28th, at all points.

Here we wish to call your attention to the advantage of selling your turkeys to our Company: Mr. Foster, our President, has been in the poultry industry in Southern Oklahoma and Northern Texas continuously for seven years.

Our houses are open the year round to receive your produce. We actually operate during some of the Summer months at a considerable cash loss, in other words if we would close our houses on the 1st day of June and open them on the 1st day of November we would have several thousand dollars more money than we would have to continue them during these dull months.

But we realize the farmers must have a market the year round and we believe it is his duty to patronize the industry that continues buying in his community during the entire twelve months of the year.

There are always a large number of small fly by night dealers who are ready to open up on the first day of November and stay during the rush season. Some of these are legitimate and they are fair dealers, but there are some who believe in "getting theirs" while the getting is good. Better be safe than sorry; patronize the house you know will treat you right. We buy turkeys, ducks, geese, guineas, hens, fryers, roosters, butter, and pecans.
